'STAR TREK' EXHIBIT FINDS NEW HOME IN LAS VEGAS

Restaurant, Retail and Museum Slated To Open In Downtown Las Vegas

NEW YORK and LAS VEGAS – February 2, 2009

Star Trek is beaming into downtown Las Vegas.

The Star Trek attraction, which will be located in downtown Las Vegas at the corner of Fremont St. and Las Vegas Blvd., will incorporate parts of Star Trek: The Experience, which closed its 11-year run at the Las Vegas Hilton in September, as well as introduce brand new exhibits and features.

CBS is thrilled that Star Trek will continue to have a presence in Las Vegas at the Neonopolis building located on Fremont Street and Fourth. This impressive attraction will become the ultimate destination for new and old Star Trek fans alike.

The downtown entertainment venue will include a combination bar/restaurant, a retail operation, a museum and more. The museum component, called the History of the Future, will contain mannequins, costumes, dioramas and other exhibits that will take visitors on a journey from the original Star Trek series developed by creator Gene Rodenberry through current Star Trek creations.
